VETERANS IN GUARD AT HOME IN CAMP

Company A, 142d Engineers, Finds Old Tricks Still Unforgotten.

BRIDGE BUILT IN A HURRY

Pontoon Structure Rushed Up With Speed of Regulars—One More Week of Training.

Deep in the wilderness of a section of Camp Humphreys, Va., Company A, 142d Engineers, National Guard of the District of Columbia, has spent one of the busiest weeks of its career as a unit of the post-war guard.
But many of the men are veterans of the old 1st Separate Battalion of Infantry, National Guard of the District of Columbia, who have records for overseas service. And on the sleeves of many of them can be seen the red band, the insignia of the French division with which they were brigaded during the war—the red band of vengeance.

Since it has been in camp, Company A, which is commanded by Capt. Arthur C. Newman, a veteran of the old guard and of the war, particularly in a review of the entire garrison at Camp Humphreys, by the commanding officer, Col. Woodworth, and the military attaché of the French legation. When the District of Columbia passed before the reviewing party the French officer smiled and recognized the red hand insignia of one of the famous French divisions of the war.

Fifty-Eight Men in Camp.
There are fifty-eight men in the camp, and they are quartered in one of the barracks buildings near the reservist officers' barracks, and close to the post headquarters. In addition to Capt. Newman, there are with the company, Lieut. Carlisle, a former King and Capt. Albert Ridgeley, medical officer, both former members of the old 1st Separate Battalion.

The first week of their training has been a most active one and they have gone to the river and when the veteran soldiers the bridge down and Star reporter found them they were a deep racing in a thickly wooded section of the camp, constructing a spar bridge.

Build and Tear Down Bridge.
Earlier in the week they constructed a pontoon bridge into the Potomac river with the rapidity of regular engineers, and when they finished they tore the bridge down and selected and loaded the materials, which were sent to Glassboro Point for the bridge of the 1st Infantry at Camp Simms.

They have had already a good share of infantry drill and a number of maneuvers, during which they dug a number of outlying trenches similar to the trenches of the war, and the outfit dug on French soil during the war.

After another busy week, during which they will participate in much more construction and demolition work, under Lieut. John C. Arrow-smith, U. S. A., instructor, they will return to Washington.

15,000 NEGROES JOIN.

D. C. Branch of N. A. A. C. P. Expects to Enroll 25,000 Members.

In a few weeks' time the District of Columbia branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People here is expected to have a membership totaling 25,000. Reports show the branch is well over the 15,000 mark now, which figure is 5,000 more than was originally assigned as a quota for Washington. Shelby J.
Davidson, who announced the foregoing yesterday, stated that $5,722.80 had also been received from the campaign that was waged.

The campaign workers and those in charge of the various divisions are advised by Secretary Davidson that the office is open daily for the completion of their reports, and they are urged to submit them at their earliest convenience. The executive committee at its last session before adjourning for the summer discussed a plan for a year-around campaign instead of a few weeks, as heretofore.

WILL INSPECT HIGHWAYS.

Bureau Chief to Tour Federal-Aided Roads in West.

Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads of the Department of Agriculture, has left Washington for an extensive inspection trip of federal-aid road work in the western states. He will give particular attention to the planning of the federal-aid system of highways, for which meetings will soon be held with officials from various groups of states, and wishes to familiarize himself with conditions on the ground.

While in the west Mr. MacDonald will inspect several of the national forest and road projects where the bureau is carrying on some of the most spectacular road construction to be found in the country today.

AIMING TO MAKE BIG SUCCESS OF BOYS' CLUB BENEFIT BASE BALL GAME.

Sky to "Rain" Base Ball Tickets Over Ellipse Tomorrow Noon

All those interested in the great national pastime might do well to keep their eyes skyward tomorrow around noon, for precisely at 12 o'clock 1,000 toy balloons will be released at the Ellipse, and attached to these will be about 200 little boxes containing tickets to the Washington-St. Louis base ball game Tuesday, the proceeds from which will be devoted to the Boys' Club of Washington. Strings connected with these receptacles will be released when the balloons reach a certain height and the scattering tickets will be honored at the gate by the lucky finders presenting them.

The novel idea is one of many being carried out by the boys' committee of the Rotary Club, which has been doing all in its power to all the "ole ball park" as never before. Rotarian R. M. Hicks of the International Mercantile Marine will have charge of the balloons, and according to him, the stunt will be results.

Browns Lead League.
Rotary's interest in this particular ball game is due to the fact that it is sponsored for the Boys' Club, which is located at 230 C street, and Rotarian Clark C. Griffith agreed several months ago to turn over the proceeds from any game in July his fellow clubmen might select. As the St. Louis Browns, still league leaders, are one of the most attractive drawing cards of the season, little doubt is expressed that the "standing-room-only" sign will be the order of the day.

In an appeal to the public for its support on this occasion, Proctor L.

Club meet, which will be held here this fall.
